FENM Listening Experiment Log #2

Title of Video	The language of lying
Link to Your Video	The language of lying — Noah Zandan
Summary of the Video In your own words, summarize the key points of the video in 1-3 sentences. Please make sure you use YOUR OWN WORDS . When writing the summary, do include the main ideas. Do not include all the details. Remember a summary is like a snapshot of the original piece.	Traditional lie detection methods — such as polygraphs and physiological response monitoring — are unreliable. Linguistic text analysis is a more direct approach.
Reflection on Your Listening Experiment Actively listen 2-3 times. Change things up and see what works well for you. Play with the subtitles. Use them; don't use them; switch languages; only use when you don't understand; use them to check understanding.	1st Time	There are some special word about Medical I can't understand.

Feel free to stop and start the video to work on understanding or look things up. Feel free to change the video speed to .75x or speed up the video speed to 1.25x. AFTER EACH LISTENING Describe (1) how you played with actively listening and (2) how those things helped or hurt your understanding. Here are some questions to aid you in your reflection: ★ How much could you understand? ★ What did you do while listening? ★ Did you use subtitles--what language(s)? When? How? ★ Did you play with the speed? ★ When you didn't understand, what did you do? ★ When you encountered unknown words, what did you do?	2nd Time	I turn on the bilingual subtitles to understand the whole content.
	3rd Time	In this time, I turn off the subtitles. I already know the main idea of the video so that I quite understand all of the video.
Personal Reaction to the Video Write down comments, reactions, or personal opinions about the content of the video. (3-5 sentences) You may use one of these as your first sentence, if you'd like to: ★ I found some interesting/important information in this video. ★ After watching this, I now would like to (learn more about /read more research about /...)		I found some interesting information about linguistic text analysis. Including less self-reference, more negative language, simpler explanations, and convoluted sentence structure.

★ There is some information in this article that I could apply to my life. ★ I agree / disagree with something in the video. ★ This video reminded me of (me/ my family/my friend). ★ I was surprised by something in this video.
Personal Reaction to the Listening Experiment Reflect on the entire process of experimenting with listening by listening to the same piece at least three times. (4-10 sentences) Here are some questions you might want to answer: ★ Did you understand more with each listening? ★ What do you think helped the most? Why? ★ What was not so helpful to you? Why do you think that is? ★ What would you want to try next time (either the same thing again or something different)?	The reader speaking accent is quite easy to understand. By the way that I am really interesting on the topic so I learn every word in the video.
Discussion Questions for the FINAL ORAL EXAM Write at least 3 possible questions based on this video that could be used for discussion with your group. Bring these questions with you to the final oral exam!	1. According to the 4 ways, which one is the easiest to find someone lying? 2. What's are the cost if you lie in the close relationship? 3. Do you lie to yourself?
